This year marks the 40th anniversary of Judge Alexander Williams Jr.'s pioneering 1986 campaign for State's Attorney in Prince George's County.

In a landmark upset, Williams defeated the six-term incumbent, becoming the first Black candidate elected countywide to public office in Prince George's County. Williams's victory demonstrated the growing political power of the county's Black community and reflected broader support among voters seeking new leadership and meaningful change. His historic election opened doors for a new generation of Black attorneys, judges, elected officials, and civic leaders throughout Prince George's County and Maryland.
